'Israel used virus to spy on hotels which hosted Iran nuclear talks'

Arab-Israeli Conflict

By MICHAEL WILNER
'Israel used virus to spy on hotels which hosted Iran nuclear talks'

- Report: Israel spied on US nuclear talks with Iran
- Israeli cabinet unanimously opposed to Iran framework...

Duqu virus may have allowed theft of computer files, eavesdropping on rooms, reports Wall Street Journal.

WASHINGTON – A cybersecurity firm has identified breaches in its software at three luxury Swiss hotels from a virus considered a hallmark of Israeli intelligence operations. The three hotels hosted the Iran nuclear talks.

Kaspersky Lab ZAO discovered the virus at the three hotels where world powers and Iran held negotiations over its nuclear program in the past year, the Wall Street Journal reported on Wednesday.

According to its report of the investigation, Kaspersky crosschecked thousands of hotels in search of similar breaches and found only three. The firm declined to name the hotels, but the negotiations have been held in just six hotels in Switzerland and Austria since the diplomatic effort first began.

Kaspersky has concluded that the perpetrator was a sophisticated virus known as Duqu, which allows its handlers to monitor activity, steal computer, files and eavesdrop on the rooms in which computers are operating.

The company also reported that the front desks of the hotels had also been hacked, which the Journal said would allow the hackers to identify the room numbers of specific delegates and ministers.

Neither the Prime Minister’s Office nor the Foreign Ministry would comment on the report.

US officials publicly accused Israel of spying on the talks back in 2014 and have repeated those allegations on multiple occasions since. Israel’s intelligence effort, they say, began in 2012, when the Obama administration first opened a covert channel with Tehran.

Addressing the annual Herzliya Conference this week, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu lamented Israel’s absence at the negotiating table, given the impact a deal would have on the Jewish state.

“No one from this region, except Iran, is at the negotiating table,” Netanyahu said. “Somebody once said: ‘If you’re not at the table, you’re on the menu.’ The states with the most at stake are not even in the room.”

Two years of negotiations among the US, Britain, France, Russia, China, Germany and Iran produced a political framework agreement in April at the Beau-Rivage Palace Hotel in Lausanne.

Diplomats hope to conclude the talks with a final, comprehensive agreement See BANS, Page 10 sealed by June 30.

How do they know it wasn't the chinese? They too spy on USA and wanted to know what was discussed between Kerry and the iranians.

shaukat ➔ Luke Bandolino • 11 days ago
as it is mentioned in the Jerusalem post, you can count it as an advertisement of Israel's computer espionage prowess.

shaukat • 12 days ago irony of the situation, people actually believe that Iran and Israel are enemies, when the opposite is true. They are are the best of friends. People have been hoodwinked by both parties for such a long time, that people actually believe in their animosity. It is a WWE farce on a global level. I had predicted 15 years ago, that Israel and USA is not going to attack Iran, not because they are scared, but, because they are the one and the same. 2 sides of the same coin.

Luke Bandolino ➔ shaukat • 12 days ago
By your logic, I guess Russia must be a friend of Ukraine, too.

shaukat ➔ Luke Bandolino • 11 days ago
This is simple historical knowledge, and when is Russia an enemy of Ukraine??
I do agree they have their differences, the matter was aggravated by America. That is why Europe is least concerned about this situation and is only toeing USA line. Why is Putin not worried??
Read about the history of Islam and creation of the Shia sect in proper perspective and the role of jews living in Arabia in that time. How come Israel attacked the reactor in Iraq and not Iran? where the majority population is shia, but the government in power was Sunni. How come jews visit Iran to this day through countries like Panama, and I know for a fact that they have extensive investment in Iran. There is so much going on beneath the surface and people are so naive in the east and the west, as they are totally under media influence, which by the way is controlled by the jews. Did anyone file a case against the secretary of state of USA, when it became open knowledge that the premise of the Iraq war was based on lies, and millions died. Everything is a lie and people just follow what is fed to them blindly.

Obama has no business accusing Israel of undermining diplomacy. Just this past week he all but threatened the Supreme Court judges not to pass his health care bill, it's disgusting... And to prematurely start blaming Israel? Gosh, I'm grateful Israel isn't letting him push them around, especially on matters that are more their concern then his.

ravtodot · 12 days ago
Israel should have been invited to send a representative to the talks. It had a right to be there.

Know your enemy, know yourself and you will prevail. Obama is the enemy of ISrael has sold her out many times over. Spying is fair game. If Americans dont like it, get rid of your president who usurps your constitution , lies at the drop of a hat, has Muslim Brotherhood installed in high placed in office and is basically making America circle the drain. Impeach O liar in chief

fred capio · 12 days ago
A much better report in a German magazine states that Kaspersky itself was invaded and the spyware remained undiscovered for several months. This is brilliant. The best way to test a spyware of this complexity without additional costs is to invade a company like Kaspersky and wait how long it takes to be discovered. Once it is discovered you read the report and improve the next version based on the report's analysis. If this was Israel I would be very proud....

Don Basson · 12 days ago
Outrageous if Israel told American members of Congress what Obama is up to. I mean, it's not as if the Congress is a co-equal branch of the US Government.

senexfortunatus · 12 days ago
Very reassuring to know (if the report is accurate) that the Israelis are doing what they need to do. Imagine how different things might have been if we had been able to eavesdrop on (among others) the Wannsee conference!

Harold Howe → senexfortunatus · 12 days ago
The US should cut off all aid to Israel and join the bds movement.

If Israel wants to act as our enemy, they should be treated as such.
Should Germany boycott the US for tapping our Chancellor's phone? I'm sure I can find a few intellectually challenged people who would favour that.

Harold Howe • Walhalla • 12 days ago

That would not be in Germany's national interest, of course.

However, Israel is trying to undercut the efforts of the USA and its partners in the PS5+1 to make a deal with Iran.

That's quite a different matter.

May you can find a new benefactor to replace the USA.

Israel has already squandered all moral authority it ever might have had in the way it treats the Palestinian Arabs.

Walhalla • Harold Howe • 12 days ago

You are very inconsistent in your approach. If it's the potential spying you criticise, you should do the same about the US spying on its allies which is happening on a much larger scale.

Harold Howe • Walhalla • 12 days ago

Nonsense. My comment has to do with Israel alienating its only friend and benefactor, the USA.

Walhalla • Harold Howe • 12 days ago

I safely assume that you have no certainty if (1) spying has taken place, (2) if it has, who is behind it, (3) if the US was spied on, and (4) if the US may have consented. Allegations from a private Russian security firm have to be taken with more than a grain of salt. Unless you just want to use it as another excuse to vilify Israel which seems to be one if your favourite pastimes.

Harold Howe • Walhalla • 12 days ago

Nonsense. Your comment has nothing to do with Israeli spying on its only friend and benefactor and alienating it by undercutting its efforts with its P5+1 partners to make a deal with Iran.

May you can find a new benefactor to replace the USA.

elle909 • Harold Howe • 12 days ago

Israel is the one threatened by Iran on weekly bases If any one has the right to know the skimming that goes on In this so called negotiations is Israel So if you are so worried about your palestinian brothers, just move there Unless your all ready there
If you think alienating Israel's only ally and benefactor will help it, you're nuts.

Now throw another tantrum.

The Palestinians are as much your brothers as they are mine.

You're just showing that you only care about Jews...

You're stereotypical.

Yes, you are

How does that equate to the article?

Israel spying on the USA and then publicly trying to to use the information against the USA is the subject of the article. Did you miss that?

Your response is stereotypically childish, deflective and dishonest.

You left out the part of my comment about Israel has publicly tried to use the information against the USA....and, of course, how Israel is trying to interfere in the efforts of the USA and its partners in the PS5+1 to make a deal with Iran. All you're doing is confirming why the US should cut off aid to Israel and join the bds movement.

Israel can, of course, cut off its non-existent aid to the USA and find a new benefactor.

Gee, I was about to say the same about your naivete, but then of course you would merely return to you lack of knowledge of the real world.

You're showing just how stereotypically childish, deflective and dishonest you are.
You can't refute or address Israel's attempt to undermine the efforts of the USA and its partners in the PS5+1 to make a deal with Iran, so you lash out with insults like a spoiled little child.

You're a joke.
